The Homecoming Ambassadors, selected by the entire high school body, were Misigana Assega and Evan Hathaway. They were presented with checks for their ministries, a certificate of recognition, and a book on Christian leadership.

A Note from the Community Liaison

The following was written by Community Liaison, Dr. Sandy Outlar.

Since we are in a new year and a new school, I thought I would check in with the families and friends of LCCS. My reason is to update you on the activities of the Community Relations Department for the school.

One of the big and blessed projects of the year is EITC. This is the tax credit program that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has made possible for schools like LCCS. A variety of businesses can reduce their tax obligations to the state by contributing to a non-profit organization. At present we have over 20 participants and little by little the number is growing.

This year we honored the participants, with a “thank you” breakfast that included a plaque that has the following words on it: On behalf of the children who have benefited from your gift through EITC, we thank you.

If you are a business owner and have not yet been involved with EITC, please contact our Community Relations Office and we would be most willing to tell you more about this beneficial program.

Another area of responsibility that falls under Community Relations is the development of a Pastoral Advisory Committee. The pastors meet once a month to serve the school in the following ways:

- 1.) Act as a sounding board from the community concerning LCCS.
- 2.) Provide ways that LCCS might serve the churches.
- 3.) Pray with and advise the Head of School of LCCS, Mr. Mark Coté.
- 4.) Aide the school by communicating the ministry of LCCS to the churches in the area.

Community Relations also includes being a liaison to the educational community of Lancaster County. We are committed to being of value and service to other Christian schools in the area by participating in educational research that will help enhance the ministry of Christian education throughout the area and around the world.

Our best Community Relations is your expression of appreciation for LCCS in your circle of influence. If I can be of any help to you in this area please don't hesitate to contact me at 717-556-0711 or by email at soutlar@lccs.cc

Christmas Carol

Ten ninth-grade students spent a Saturday afternoon in December enriching their education by traveling to Gettysburg to see a traveling theatrical company present "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens. The play, put on at the Majestic Theater on the edge of the Gettysburg College Campus, was a musical adaption of the famous novel. The students are nearly finished reading the book in freshman English, and they enjoyed the matinee, as well as a dinner at The Olive Garden upon returning to Lancaster. The ten students were: Elisabeth Ciarrocca, Shelby Amoo-Mitchual, Jonathan Glick, Jeshurun Bartch, Bryan Weischedel, Katie Witwer, Drew Mumma, Shawn Smucker, Emily Shipper, and Erica Suliveras. Parent chaperones were Lori and Larry Ciarrocca and Mary Forrest. Thank you to these parents for driving and chaperoning the trip.

Middle School Drama Enrichment

On Tuesday, January 11, the middle school drama team performed a program for high school chapel. The team of 16 shared five short skits about Christian life that included giving your sins to Jesus and letting him take your shame, the importance of salvation, being thankful for the talents Christ has given you, staying away from situations that may tempt you to sin, and living for Jesus in every part of your life. The chapel was funny yet challenging to the audience. The drama team did a phenomenal job in using what they learned about acting to glorify God in their production.
