Preschool goes to the Country Barn Farm Market

Preschool students pose at the Country Barn Farm Market.

The Preschool class had a fun-filled, cold and dreary day at the Country Barn Farm Market in Lancaster in October. They rode on a wagon pulled by a tractor out to a pumpkin patch. In the pumpkin patch, the students each got to pick their own pumpkin, with a challenge to fit it into a small plastic bag. After a ride back, they listened to Farmer Jim while he showed them some of the animals on his farm. Preschool students were able to pet Henny Penny, the chicken, Eeyore, the donkey, and Princess, the pony! They also watched piglets race and goats climb on their house. The day wasn't complete until they got a special snack and a coloring book. The students were all cold, but the day was a big success.
